Nora,
The cabinet discussed this and we will issue a response to the Collegian that asked about [REDACTED]. The response includes a university decision on [REDACTED]. You can use the same language when messaging the college:

[REDACTED] has been employed as a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of Art and Design since Fall 2021. [REDACTED] were placed on investigatory leave pending further review by the university.

The first sentence may not be relevant to CAH. [REDACTED].

Thank you, Xuanning. We had planned to send the message only to ADAH. What language may we use for the Tuesday closure of the gates of Conley and all classes going online on Tuesday? We plan to ask the police to not unlock the doors and to keep the gates all locked in order to protect the glass cabinets and large windows in the courtyard on the day of the planned use of the courtyard for a protest.

Best,

Nora

I'll let you know for sure tomorrow.

Or announce the investigatory leave first and say you will provide a follow up with informing safety.

Please let me know,

Dear Holly,
Here is the approved language:

██████████ has been employed as a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of Art, Design, and Art History since Fall 2021. ██████████ were placed on investigatory leave pending further review by the university.

I would add to this regarding Tuesday:

Due to a planned protest at the Conley Art building on Tuesday, the building will be closed for the day. All classes scheduled in Conley will be held online.

If you teach a class on Tuesday in Conley, please inform your students that their class will be held online and send them the Zoom link.

Feel free to adjust as you wish.

I need to ask campus police to lock all three gates on Monday night after the night classes, and to not unlock anything in Conley on Tuesday at all.

Do send the message to everyone tomorrow, if not today.

Please take care,
Nora

10-24-22, The Collegian, questions about closure of Conley Art Building

Jannah Geraldo,

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. today

We received notice that the Conley Art Building will be closed all day tomorrow, Oct. 25.

Question: What is the reason for the building's closure on Tuesday? Does the closure of this building have any correlation with the "Demanding Justice" gathering that has circulated on social media following the investigatory leave of professor [REDACTED]?

There is an update: the Conley Art courtyard will be open tomorrow. (Provost Fu just told me that the FPD confirmed that a protest is not happening for sure.)

APPROVED RESPONSE:

In light of information received this afternoon, the Conley Art building will not be closed tomorrow. We will monitor and support campus activities accordingly in the event a protest is held.

Excellent, Holly. I asked the police about M Street safety, and they'll let me know around 4:30 today.

And Chris knows to lock the two back gates at 5 tonight?

Please send an email to the ADAH student listservs telling them that Conley art will be closed tomorrow and unavailable for their use, and that all their classes are online tomorrow. The provost asked for this to reduce complaints that they weren't told.

Thanks,
Nora

Hello,

We have a follow-up inquiry from Jannah, the editor-in-chief of The Collegian: We received notice that the building remained closed today despite reporting that the closure was planned to be lifted today. Is there any update regarding the building remaining closed today, and reasoning as to why? Any response by 6 p.m. today would be greatly appreciated, as we plan on updating our current news story.

How should we respond to this? I'm starting with this group, but please let me know if there is someone else who would know the answer to this.

Thank you.
